- When you're responsible for something, it's your job to do it. You're responsible for writing that report or managing that client relationship or turning in your receipts within 15 days. But accountability, that's something different. It's not what you have to do, it's a state of mind, the difference between managing yourself and having someone look over your shoulder to keep you on task.

1.1. Joanna's acknowledgments. Many people have helped me with this book, directly or indirectly. I would like to especially thank Matt Welsh for inspiration and LDP leadership, Andy Oram for getting me to work again with much-valued feedback, Olaf Kirch for showing me that it can be done, and Adam Richter at Yggdrasil and others for showing me that other people can find it interesting as well.

While you should add a class to the table you want to affect, let's assume you can only modify the css. In that case you can get pretty fancy with selectors. But not all the browsers support them. You can see that the CSS 2 selectors don't support the n-th child concept. Otherwise, if you had html like:
